OIL SEEDS

Oil Seeds have a significant importance in the global food industry due to their wide-spread applications in raw form as well as for the healthy oils that can be extracted from them. India is a global leader in oil seeds like Groundnuts (2nd highest producer) and Sesame Seeds (highest producer) and contributes a significant share of the world's oil seeds supply. While the raw oil seeds (groundnut, sesame, mustard etc.) are staples in Indian households, their oils are used in everyday indian cooking too.
